* CALL TO WORSHIP

Psalm 23 (Robert Alter, trans.)
Sylvia Broome, liturgist

The Lord is my shepherd,
I shall not want.
In grass meadows You makes me lie down,
by quiet waters guide me.
My life You bring back.
You lead me on pathways of justice for Your name's sake.
Though I walk in the vale of death's shadow,
I fear no harm,
for You are with me.
Your rod and Your staff—
it is they that console me.
You set out a table before me
in the face of my foes.
You moisten my head with oil,
my cup overflows.
Let but goodness and kindness pursue me
all the days of my life.
And I shall dwell in the house of the Lord for many long days.

MEDITATION

My son lives on the streets.
We don't see each other much.
Like a mother who puts white lilies
on the headstone of a dead child,
I put money into his bank account, clothes into E-Z Access storage and pretend he's far away—
at a boarding school, or in a foreign country.
Nights, I dream fairy tales about him.
I dream he becomes a prince,
scholar or warrior who rescues me
from sorrow, the way he rescued me
when he was a child and said,
"Mommy, don't cry," and brought tea into the room of his father's acrimony—brave, standing tall in the forest fire of his father's scorn. I wake to the empty sound of wind in the trees.
He says he wants to live with me.
I say I can't live with him—boy whose words crash like branches in a rain storm.
Nothing can hold him in,
the walls of a house too thin.
Back home, I had seen the "study-hard-so-you-don't-become-like-them"
street bums on Mamo Street,
and he's like them.
These days, in order to catch a glimpse of him,
I circle the city. One day,
I see him on his bike.
People give him wide berth,
the same way birds avoid power lines,
oncoming cars or trees.
I park on a side street.
Wild-eyed, he flies the block
as if in a holding pattern.
Not of my body, not of my hopes,
he homes in on what can't be given or taken away.

SILENCE

Selah: pause and reflect on how God is meeting you in these words.

RESPONDING TO THE MEDITATION

*ASSURANCE OF GRACE

Matthew 11:28-30 (The Message)

"Are you tired? Worn out? Burned out on religion? Come to me. Get away with me and you'll recover your life. I'll show you how to take a real rest. Walk with me and work with me—watch how I do it. Learn the unforced rhythms of grace. I won't lay anything heavy or ill-fitting on you. Keep company with me and you'll learn to live freely and lightly."

Together, we are learning the unforced rhythms of grace.

In Christ, we are forgiven, loved, and free!

As they were going along the road, someone said to him, "I will follow you wherever you go." And Jesus said to him, "Foxes have holes, and birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay his head."

-Luke 9:57-58

You have stirred in us the desire to praise you, for you have made us for yourself and our heart is restless until it comes to rest in you.

NOTES ON WORSHIP TODAY:

Local fiber artist Anne Earle, a friend to many at NDPC, was commissioned by the Worship Committee to craft a visual invitation to ponder the green and growing time of God's creation, known on the liturgical calendar as Ordinary Time. Anne's cheerful work and flowing composition was created with detailed hand-stitching, colorful adornments, and vibrant and varied green fabrics, including pieces that were made by members of our church community earlier this year.

You are invited to come to the chancel after worship today to take a moment to look at Anne's craftsmanship on both the front and back of the communion table piece. You'll see the signatures of the workshop participants and a thoughtfully made image that represents NDPC's place at its literal intersection with the neighborhood.
